AD 443 - AD 460

Empress EUDOCIA lived in Jerusalem. She died in 460. During that time she rebuilt the walls of the city to enclose both the ancient City of David and Mt. Zion, and established hospitals, hostels, monasteries and churches. She also allowed Jews much greater freedom to visit the city on religious festivals, but this privilege did not outlast her death. She was buried in the CHURCH of ST. STEPHEN, which she had forwarded, just beyond the north gate of the city

AD 408-450

Empress EUDOCIA, wife of Theodosius II
(AD 408-450) went to live in Jerusalem.
A pious woman, she had started life as a pagan Greek girl called ATHENAIOS whom the emperor married for her beauty & her intelligence.

Out of favor at court, she arrived
in Jerusalem in AD 443
